Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Violet Morrison-Campbell s new book is an up close, face to face confrontation with cervical cancer. She tells of her journey with cancer and overcoming it as she drew near to God. The application of God s will makes all the difference. Dr. G.J. Thompson, Th.D. International President and CEO Vineyard University Violet is an inspiration to me and anyone who comes in her path. She has faith that invigorates and encourages others to put their trust in Christ. This is a great book with a real story. James J Flood Author of Life Balance Solutions Violet Morrison-Campbell was always involved in the wellbeing of others and dedicated to excellence. She was introduced to success at a very young age. She started teaching at the young age of 17 and went on to study at St Joseph s Teachers College while assisting with the care of her siblings and support to her parents. She left the hills for the City of Kingston where she formally began her profession (teaching) at Pembroke Hall Secondary School. As she continued her education later on, she embarked in undergraduate studies at the University of Miami and graduate studies at Antioch Christian University. Often times after major accomplishments there tends to be a lull that was not the case for Violet. She has been empowered to empower with experience to propel her to the next stage of the journey. She is full of optimism and gratitude ready to tell the world of her encounter with cancer; not just healed but cured. Violet was challenged but full of hope knowing that God can use the pain of cancer for His glory.
